Australian Vanadium gets diamond drill bit spinning at Gabanintha Vanadium Project

Australian Vanadium Ltd \(ASX:AVL\) has begun metallurgical and resource diamond drilling at its Gabanintha Vanadium Project near Meekathara in Western Australia.

The program is designed to update the current mineral resource by drilling a number of holes to test at depth, trial new spectral and XRF scanning techniques and gather further geotechnical data.

Confirm circuit performance

Australian Vanadium director Vincent Algar said: “The 30 tonnes of material from this program are essential to confirm the performance of the circuit we have already defined in the PFS.

“As we complete the detailed design of the plant, it is essential we move from bench-scale tests to larger-scale tests using anticipated blends of ore that will be mined.
